C/o RAO BAHADUR
K. B. JADHAV.
BARODA,
July 2nd, 1902.

DEAREST MRINALINI,

It is fifteen days since I came from Lanauli to Baroda. Since then I received your letter once, and have not received any more news. I hope you will write a letter six or seven days after. If I do not get any news from you I shall know that you are ill. I may not write, I have many things to do, and may be late now and then; but if you do not write, there can be no other cause than illness.

I wrote you a letter and sent Rs. 10. I hope you have received it duly. I forgot to write one thing in that letter. You had told me that you had a horoscope Send it to me. There is Yatin Banerji here. I wish to show it once to him. All people may not have faith in astrology, but I have faith in it. Continued observation for ten years has confirmed this faith. But this, too, I have seen that, out of a thousand astrologers, nine hundred know nothing and deceive people by working on surmises only; and ninety-eight know a little, and three-fourths of what they write are mistaken. But the calculations of these who know are found to be wonderfully correct. As, for instance, two astrologers foretold (lit, said) a few months ago that the Coronation (lit., anointment) of the King of England would not take place this time and gave even the reason for it. One even told what the disease would be. This cannot be an outcome of gundaism or chance.

(Illegible) . . . . . .
The usefulness of knowing before lies in that remedies can be made. Yatin Babu will not stay here for a long time. Send the horoscope soon. If you do not get the horoscope, it will do if you write the exact time of birth; but the time must be correct to the minute.

There is not much news. The Maharaja is staying at Coonoor, and will stay there for two or three days more. The news of the postponement of the Coronation has probably given him great pleasure. The postponement of the Coronation may lead to the postponement of the Delhi Durbar also. Khasi Rao is in the mufassil these five days. I am staying here with Ananda Rao and two nephews of Madhava De. The younger brother of Mrs. Khosira is also here. All others have gone away to their native places. I have heard that they are all well. I have not yet received any letter from Madhava Rao. I am well. There is a very bad system in this house. Flesh is the only thing that is cooked here. One seldom meets with fried pot-herb. It is difficult for me to digest so much flesh. It is because I take vigorous exercise that I can somehow do so, but still I get pain in the stomach now and then. In all other respects my body is keeping fairly strong. Here the rains have not yet set in. It is in a manner settled that we will have a famine this year. The distress may be a little mitigated if there be no scarcity of water. Khasi Rao is trying to get an artesian well sunk in his garden. Some people are saying that thirty inches of rain will fall within fourteen days and then there will be no more rainfall, and some are saying that not a drop of rain will fall till August. The latter finding has been made by a meteorological saheb by observations of the tendencies and movements of the sun, moon, etc. The fellow says that the solar system is rushing, with a set purpose, towards the constellation Hercules, that in this rush the earth has come ahead and the sun is pushing it from behind, and that Jupiter and Saturn have suddenly come in the midst of this disorder; that for this reason a fearful tension has come to play on the atmosphere and prevented rainfall, and that this tension will fall in August, but that, if the moon favours, rain may fall on the 5th July. While reading this I formed a desire to blow off the head of this fellow; but I desisted, because there would be no rainfall even if I blew off his head—God Indra will not accept the sacrifice of the head of a Mlechcha.

In the meantime I have received two letters and two post-cards from Sarojini. I have sent replies to two, and another is in hand. Ganes himself, not to speak of an insignificant person like myself, will not be able to pull on with such a consummate writer. Bow-didi (elder brother's wife) has fled from Darjeeling. But you have probably already got this news. I see no sign of Bibha getting married. Sarojini writes that Bibha will read in Calcutta till November.

There is no more news worth writing. Kindly do not forget to write in reply. My mind remains anxious after your illness.

YOUR HUSBAND.

P.S.—I am not being able to decide which one I shall select from the pictures. I shall send within two days. I shall take out one, good or bad, with my eyes shut.

The internal and external diameters of a shell being given in inches, its weight may be found in pounds, according to the annexed Rule. Find the difference between the cubes of the internal and external diameters, multiply it by 9, and divide the product by 64, and the quotient will be weight, as indicated in the margin, with a shell whose diameters are respectively 10 inches and 6 inches.

$- 10^3 = 1000$

178. Now it might be useful to know the mode of ascertaining the quantity of powder which a shell will contain.

The internal diameter of a shell being given in inches, to find out the quantity of powders in pounds that will fill it, and conversely.

Rule.—Multiply the cubic of internal diameter by ·01745 and the product is nearly the number of pounds, as indicated in the margin, with the shell in the above example. $6^3 = 216$.

$216 \times \cdot01743 = 3\cdot77$ lbs.

178. Rule for converse prob.

Multiply the number of pounds by 59·3, and the cub. root of the product will be the diameter, as exemplified in the margin with the weight found in the preceding example.

$3{\cdot}77 \times 57 = 215821,$

then $\sqrt[3]{215821} = 5{\cdot}99$ inches.

Probs.—How much powder will a shell contain (fresh page begins) whose diameter is 7½ inches?

= 7·36 lbs.

How much powder will a shell contain whose internal diameter is 13 inches?

= 38·34 lbs.

A shell contains 1·57 lbs. of powder, what is its internal diameter?

24-8-10.

Mother, do not think for me. Know it for certain that I shall not return. Mother, my sorrow is even more terrible than yours. You are going to lose one and I am going to lose all. Father is now old and I am going to bid adieu to the family for good. My heart breaks as I ponder day and night over the terrible state to which the family will be reduced after a few days. You should tell father and have these few things done in a day or two. Ask father to make a will. Let him not do anything in my name, otherwise that will be lost. Prepare the will in such a manner as will save all sides and, at the same time, not do anything in my name. Do it precisely in a day or two. Do not by any means fail to do it. There is no need of incurring any cost for me, because you will not be able to do anything in the case. An enormous cost is required which is beyond your means to meet. A case like this can be managed by 50 or 60 thousand rupees. Where can you get so much money? In the meantime ask father to come and see (me) once. Do one thing for me. Perhaps you remember what I wrote once in a letter. There is a sadhu (religious man) named Bama Kshepa (mad Bama) at Tarapur. Go where I went towards the end of Kartik last and seek his shelter. He will at first try to drive you away, but you must on no account leave him. If he does mercy, may be I shall get release. Or, there is in Calcutta another sadhu, whose name is Khanki Baba. Kulo (Asu) of the Banarji's and Jivan Ghosal, brother of Noni Ghosal, know his address.

Next Sunday morning father may once go with Kulo and see him. If he finds him, take him to our house and have the work for my release done. Of course it is not that this will surely secure my release. But then it is only a final attempt. It will be well if another thing is done for the family. If small mud huts are now built with corrugated-iron roofs, many low-class people may be found to rent them. And this will make a source of income and at the same time reduce expenditure. Pay Rs. 3 to this man and then I shall get one and-a-half rupees. Burn this letter after reading it.

Next Sunday morning take Kulo with you and see Khanki Baba.

Do the following things.

1. It will be well to make a will in a day or two. Do not do anything in my name. Possibly it will be well to prepare the will in such a manner as this. To make a will in brother's name and make mother executrix, and make provisions to the effect that your daughter-in-law may get her maintenance for all time and may not be ousted from her dwelling. Provide something, say about Rs. 500, for the marriage of the two daughters.

Second thing to do:—It will be well to build a number of small mud huts with corrugated-iron roofs on the ground, for the sake of making income. In that case many low-class people will be found to rent them on Re. 1 or Re. 1-8 each.

Third thing to do:—To make one effort for me by seeking the protection of sadhus. I give the names of three sadhus. They may show mercy if it can be sought with sufficient insistence. 1st:—Bama Kshepa of Tarapur, 2nd—A sadhu named Khanki Baba of Circular Road, Calcutta, 3rd—Panchanan Tarkaratna, Nasiram's Guru (preceptor). His residence is Jubilee Garden, Deoghar, Baidyanath. These men will at least be able to say whether I shall get release or not.

Pay Rs. 3 to this man, then I shall get Re. 1-3-8.

If anyone is called as a witness to identify my hand-writing let no one show it.

SARAT,

On receipt of your letter I have come to know all. I am glad to hear that Tinoo is going on with the readings in "Pratham Bhag" (1st part). You should send him to school every day for two or three hours. He will not be spoilt, if he associates with the boys of the neighbourhood. The greater the variety of characters he associates with the more will he improve. Tinoo is a little shy. If he goes to school every day he will get over the shyness and acquire the habit of going to school. Give instructions to the school to teach him English. It is better to learn something than nothing at all. Further, you too should teach him. You should make him get by heart good poems and good verses.

If you do not find poems, you should make him get by heart Swadeshi songs. Further, try to teach him tunes from time to time with the help of a harmonium. Make Nogi to walk much by holding her hand, and always repeat Ka, Kha, Ga, Gha (the Bengali alphabets) to her. She will thus learn Ka, Kha, Ga, Gha with learning to speak. If you are in Calcutta, get a photo taken of Tinoo and Nogi by Sarat Babu's sons and send it, or (?) send a photo of yourself also at your convenience through Sarat Adhikari or Atul.

I am much distressed to hear that you are not well both in body and in mind. It is a pity you have not written to me anything about the cause of this. This is very bad. Be sure to write everything explicitly to me, and I will try my best to remedy it. I am sorry to hear that your pain in the chest has not yet cured. Write to Jnan Babu's wife. Do even as she advises. If Mashima (mother's sister) agrees, she and you may put up for a few days in Midnapore or in Calcutta. I have written to Atul, and he will make the arrangement as soon as money will be forthcoming. Write in detail the cause of your distress. Write whether you are able to read my handwriting. I am anxious to know what has become of Kantiri. It would be well if you send Alo for a few days.

The cold here became intense. It is now a bit warmer for the last four or five days. I keep very well in cold. The urinary disorder has altogether disappeared. Let me know whether you suffer from it. It being very cold, I feel no desire. Further, in the beginning, while conversing with females, my mind used now and then to be a little disturbed. But now I feel exactly the same with females as with males. I still drink wine every day in small doses, but I have not got drunk for a single day. Write news of Tamlook, Bahirberiah (?) and Tilantapura. I have written letters to all of Tamlook, Bahirberiah, Tilantapura, Mayna and other places, but I have not received any reply from any. Tender my obeisances to Mashima, bowarani didi, Rani didi of Kharai and others.

Tender my affectionate blessings to the Bowmas. I am getting the Jugantar, the Medini Bandhab, and many other papers gratis. Kartik of Santipur, who was with us at Midnapore for a few days, has been sentenced to imprisonment for six months. Did you read about it? Send some present the day he is released, taking the cost from Jnan Babu's wife. The present of a pair of cloths will be the best. Bear this piece of work in mind, and do it. Give what ought to be given to friends and relations returning from pilgrimage. Write to me in reply about your distress.

Yours alone,

HEM CHANDRA.

I am exceedingly sorry and anxious to hear of your father's serious illness from your letter to-day. I wrote you long ago to go once to Tamlook. Be sure to go, if you so desire. Moreover, you ought certainly to go when your father is ill. Communicate my mind to maternal uncle. I am writing letters every week. Only for two weeks I send them to the Calcutta address. The news of Kantiri's death has made me extremely anxious. Finis.

THE evidence for the prosecution is that on conclusion of the trial of Bepin Chandra Pal in the Court of the third Magistrate on the 10th instant, a considerable crowd in the verandah of the Court-room created a disturbance by shouting Bande Mataram. Inspector Farrow, who was on duty outside the Court-room, attempted to quiet the disturbance, whereupon the first accused struck him on the helmet with an umbrella. Inspector Murray, who was attending the Police Court on duty, went to his assistance, and was also struck by the first accused with an umbrella and by the second accused with his fist. The crowd appears to have him merged out upon the landing and on the stairs, and here Inspector Murray was assaulted by the third accused, who first grappled with him and then struck him on the back.

The first and second accused were arrested by Inspector D. Beaux, and the third accused by Sergeant Hampton and Constable Gayaram.

The defence of the first accused is that he attempted to strike Inspector Murray, but failed to do so.

The second accused says that he saw the two others being taken up the stairs by the police who were needlessly assaulting them, and that he followed and protested, whereupon he was himself arrested and assaulted.

The third accused says that he was coming up the stairs when he was arrested.

Two witnesses have been called for the defence. Both are advocates of the High Court. The first, Mr. Chatterji, says that he saw two prisoners being brought up under arrest by the constables who were needlessly assaulting them, and that the second accused intervened and was arrested. Witness also intervened and so did Mr. Roy.

The second witness, Mr. Roy, says that he saw the first and third accused being brought up the step by the police and they were being assaulted by the constables and witness intervened; but he saw no intervention by the second accused, and thinks that this must have taken place after the party had passed outside the door and out of his sight.

It is apparent that these two stories are discrepant. Then Mr. Chatterji represents himself and Mr. Roy as having intervened, after the arrest of the second accused, whereas Mr. Roy saw no part taken by the second accused and saw accused 1 and 3 under arrest.

Mr. Chatterji who gave his evidence on Saturday was interviewed in the Bar Library on the following day by the second accused, but he cannot remember what the second accused said to him, and it is apparent therefore that Mr. Chatterji has a bad memory.

The explanation is that both witnesses had been to the lock-up and interviewed Bepin Chandra Pal, and when they came out they saw only the latter part of the occurrence and only a portion of that. Mr. Roy admits that there was a crowd following the police officers, and it might well happen that the assault by the second accused on Inspector Murray was not noticed by Mr. Chatterji.

I find no reason to discredit the prosecution evidence, and the discrepancies in it are no more than are to be expected from the persons taking part in a fracas of this kind.

As regards the allegation of the use of unnecessary violence by the police, it is admitted by Mr. Roy that the prisoner whom they were assaulting was struggling, and that there was a crowd following the officers; and in the circumstances it is not unnatural that the officers should use violence to the prisoner in order to get him away, and to prevent his freeing himself or being released by the crowd.

As I disbelieve the statement of the second accused, I attach no credit for his allegation that violence was used towards him in the lock-up.
